1. Introduction

The National Association of Licensed Paralegals (NALP) is an awarding organisation recognised and regulated by Ofqual, offering qualifications specifically designed for the Paralegal Sector. These qualifications have been designed so that learners have a clear path of progression and so that the content will provide them with the depth of knowledge required for any professional paralegal, whether they are looking for a career within a law firm, in the public or private sector or if they wish to forge their own path as a Paralegal in their own private practice.

The qualifications offered by NALP are well regarded throughout the legal sector and are relied upon by users as a mark of competency for the holder of a NALP qualification.

NALP takes care to update its qualifications regularly, but please be aware that this can take time so there may be some examples of, for instance, case law, that have moved on since the last review. If you have any queries at all regarding the content of the workbook or assignments provided, please do not hesitate to contact NALP, either directly or via your chosen Approved Centre and we will ensure that any feedback is included within the next scheduled review.

2. Qualifications Covered by this Guide

This Guide covers provides information for Learners studying for the following NALP qualifications:

Qualification Title	Qualification Reference Number (as per Ofqual Register of Qualifications)
NALP Level 3 Award in Paralegal Practice	600/7889/3
NALP Level 3 Certificate in Paralegal Practice	600/7693/8
NALP Level 3 Diploma in Paralegal Practice	600/7694/X

Guidance in relation to other NALP qualifications is available separately.

3. Different Learning Approaches

NALP qualifications are offered via our Approved Centres. These are training organisations which have provided evidence and assurance that they are able to deliver the qualifications effectively to their learners, whether this is via distance learning, blended learning or classroom based. Below we explain the differences between these approaches to learning.

3.1. Distance Learning

Distance Learning is where you determine how much or how fast you learn (within the time restrictions of the qualifications themselves – see Section 4.1). You will be provided with the workbooks and/or other learning material, either via a PDF workbook sent via Email, or via an online learning portal, or even a paper-based workbook. It may also include recorded teaching and training videos to provide additional guidance, but usually a Learner will be expected to undertake the majority of their learning without the aid or supervision of a tutor or teacher.

NALP L3 Paralegal Qualifications Guide for Learners

Whilst this form of learning is generally without direct guidance, our Approved Centres are expected to have suitably qualified people on staff who can provide additional guidance and teaching where this is needed. If you have opted to study via Distance Learning, therefore, you should still be able to ask the Approved Centre through which you enrolled to provide you with assistance should you require it. Obviously, they can only assist you with the study aspect and with some guidance on how to answer the assignments, but they cannot provide you with direction as to exactly how to answer a specific assignment question.

3.2. Blended Learning

Blended Learning has become far more popular over recent years, offering a mix between the self-study method of Distance Learning with some additional, planned, teaching sessions that may be either in person or via webinar or other online teaching facilities. Blended Learning will usually include some of the teaching to be 'live' – i.e. a webinar that you join as it is being delivered so that you might ask questions via the video link and receive real-time responses. It may also include set times that you spend inside a classroom setting. This means that the Learner may have to have studied up to a certain point prior to any scheduled webinars or classroom sessions, so there is less freedom for the Learner to set their own pace than in traditional 'Distance Learning'.

3.3. Classroom Based Learning

This is the traditional way of learning when a learner attends a specific classroom on set days and is directed by the teacher what to study, given guidance as this takes place with a limited amount of self-study (or homework) to be undertaken independently. Whilst this is a well-accepted and effective method of learning, it should be noted that Learners should not undertake their assignments in a classroom setting to avoid any possibility of collusion or plagiarism.

4. Achieving the Qualification(s)

These NALP qualifications are designed on a model of units, each one covering a specific part of the legal sector and English Law. Learners will be tested on their knowledge and understanding of the unit they have studied by way of undertaking an assignment for that unit. In this section we will look at how these units combine to make each qualification.

4.1. Total Qualification Time

Each Unit has been assigned a specific number of hours that it will take an average learner to study and understand the subject matter, via the study materials provided, plus complete the assignment for that unit. This is known as the Total Qualification Time (TQT). Please note that because the TQT is based on an average learner the time actually taken by a learner to complete this may be shorter or longer than the hours given in the table below, however achievement will be based on the quoted TQT and not on the hours a learner claims it to have taken. Therefore, if a Learner takes over 129 hours to study and pass the assignment for just the single Mandatory Unit (Unit 30) for the NALP Level 3 Award in Paralegal Practice, this does not mean that they do not have to take another unit in order to gain the qualification. They must successfully complete sufficient Units and their associated assignments, to equal a minimum of 129 hours TQT.

All NALP Level 3 qualifications in Paralegal Practice have one or two mandatory units that must be achieved, plus other optional units that a Learner can choose from to make up the required TQT to achieve the full qualification. The details of what a Learner must achieve for each of the qualifications, as well as the maximum timeframe for achieving these (from date of enrolment to submitting final assignment), are as follows:

Qualification Title	Minimum No of Units/assignments	Minimum TQTs	Maximum Time allowed to complete
NALP Level 3 Award in Paralegal Practice	2	129	12 months
NALP Level 3 Certificate in Paralegal Practice	4	220	24 months
NALP Level 3 Diploma in Paralegal Practice	6	318	24 months

4.2. Unit Details

Each unit covers a different area of the English legal system, at an appropriate level for Learners undertaking these qualifications. As mentioned in 4.1 above, some of these units are mandatory for all Learners and others are optional. The details of the units and whether they are mandatory or optional is as follows:

Unit No.	Unit Title	Total Qualification Time	Is the Unit Mandatory?	Is the Unit Optional?
30	Introduction to Law for Paralegals	58	Yes – for all	No
31	Legal Ethics and Responsibilities for Paralegals	68	For Certificate and Diploma	Only for Award
32	Wills and Probate for Paralegals	70		Yes – for all
33	Civil Litigation for Paralegals	75		Yes – for all
34	Criminal Litigation for Paralegals	75		Yes – for all
35	Commercial Law for Paralegals	70		Yes – for all
36	Conveyancing for Paralegals	70		Yes – for all
37	Employment Practice for Paralegals	67		Yes – for all
38	Consumer law and Advice for Paralegals	67		Yes – for all

4.3. Overall Achievement

So, putting the details of section 4.1 together with section 4.2, in order to achieve their chosen qualification, the Learner must:

- Award – successfully complete one assignment for the mandatory unit 30 plus one assignment for an optional unit. The combined TQTs for these two units must equal a minimum of 129 TQTs to achieve the qualification. This must all be completed within 12 months of the date of enrolment.

- Certificate – successfully complete one assignment for each of the mandatory units 30 and 31, plus one assignment for each optional unit chosen. The combined TQTs for these units (minimum of four units) must equal a minimum of 220 TQTs to achieve the qualification. This must all be completed within 24 months of the date of enrolment.
- Diploma – successfully complete one assignment for each of the mandatory units 30 and 31, plus one assignment for each optional unit chosen. The combined TQTs for these units (minimum of six units) must equal a minimum of 318 TQTs to achieve the qualification. This must all be completed within 24 months of the date of enrolment.

5. Reasonable Adjustments and Special Considerations

Reasonable Adjustments to the overall timeframe for completion of the qualification and the time allowed to complete assignments will be considered by NALP on a case by case basis. Any requests for Reasonable Adjustments should be made at the time of enrolment on the qualification as these are generally granted in respect of known medical or educational special needs, such as dyslexia, visual impairment, mental health conditions, etc. Any medical conditions that may require a stay in hospital during the time that the Learner will be studying should be declared at the time of enrolment. NALP reserves the right to ask for evidence of any condition claimed as the cause for a claim for a Reasonable Adjustment.

Special Considerations are where an unforeseen event happens which affects the Learner and their ability to complete their studies and / or assignments. This could be an accident or injury, a bereavement or other event. The Learner should inform their Approved Centre immediately such an event occurs (or as soon as they are physically able to) for them to put in a request for a Special Consideration.

The type of evidence that may be required for a Reasonable Adjustment or a Special Consideration to be considered includes, but may not be limited to:

- Doctor's note to confirm illness or medical condition requiring adjustments to be made
- Copy of a death certificate for a claim of bereavement
- Court attendance letters / Jury Service Letters
- Note from therapist or other specialist consultant setting out the reasons preventing a Learner from completing the study and/or assignment in the specified time
- If under 18, a parental discussion and signed letter by the parent and tutor to confirm exceptional extenuating circumstances may be submitted

Extra work commitments; childcare or elderly care issues of a general nature; other assessments with similar deadlines; no computer facilities at home; etc. are not considered as exceptional extenuating circumstances.

Please note that the Reasonable Adjustments and Special Considerations allowed are usually in respect of the time allowed to complete the qualification and/or assignment, which is limited to a maximum of 25% additional time.

Full details of our approach to Reasonable Adjustments and Special Considerations can be found within our Reasonable Adjustments and Special Considerations Policy, available to download from here.

6. Assignments

Earlier we have stated that a Learner must pass an assignment for each unit that they study in order to gain their chosen qualification. Each assignment will include specific guidance for that particular assignment which should be read in conjunction with the information provided in this section, as well as the information provided in the Qualification Specification which is available to download from the NALP website here.

Each assignment will provide opportunities for learners to be assessed on a sample range of the content required for the unit. Assignments consist of several tasks.

Each assignment contains:

- Learner Instructions
- Learning outcomes and assessment criteria for the unit.

6.1. Requesting Assignments

NALP qualifications have been designed to allow learners the freedom to decide when they feel they are ready to take an assignment, having studied the associated material for that unit. Whilst all assignments must be requested and submitted prior to the deadline for the completion of the qualification (see section 4.1 above), there is no set order or timeframe for the individual units to be completed.

If a Learner is studying via a classroom-based learning approach at their chosen Approved Centre, then the Centre may set some restrictions or timeframes based on their study timetable. Similarly, those studying via the blended learning approach may also have to adhere to some restrictions set by their Centre. As such all Learners should ensure that they have discussed any such restrictions and requirements their Approved Centre may impose.

For those who are studying via the pure distance learning approach, you are more likely to have the freedom to choose when you wish to undertake an assignment for each unit you are studying. Such Learners should contact their Approved Centre to request an assignment.

6.2. Administering the Assignments

Once a Learner has requested an assignment and their Centre informs NALP of this request, NALP will email the assignment to the Centre and this will be emailed on to the Learner (if a distance learner) or handed out to Learner if it is a classroom-based learning Centre.

A Learner has 4 weeks from the date of the assignment being emailed or handed to them by their chosen Approved Centre to complete the assignment and return the work to NALP for assessment. To help with this, the Due Date will be clearly marked on the front sheet of the Assignment paper.

PLEASE NOTE: It is the responsibility of the Learner and their chosen Approved Centre to ensure that all assignments are returned to NALP for marking by the date specified. LATE SUBMISSIONS WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED.

6.3. Grading of Assignments, Units and Overall Qualification

Assignments can be graded as Pass, Refer, or Re-sit. The meaning of these grades can be described as follows:

- Pass – the Learner has demonstrated the knowledge and understanding necessary for them to achieve all of the Learning Outcomes of the unit. They must have scored at least 45% on the assignment and have passed all of the Learning Outcomes.
- Refer – the Learner has demonstrated the knowledge and understanding necessary in most of the Learning Outcomes, but has failed on one or more tasks within the assignment, meaning that they have not passed all of the Learning Outcomes. Please note that a Learner must have scored 45% or higher but not passed all of the Learning Outcomes in order to have their assignment graded as ‘Refer’.
- Re-sit – the Learner has failed to demonstrate the knowledge and understanding necessary in order to achieve all of the Learning Outcomes of the unit and has scored under 45%.

For a Learner to achieve their chosen qualification they must have passed one assignment for each Unit of study required to meet the minimum TQTs set out in Section 4.1 above.

More details regarding the assessment methodology and the rules of combination for the units can be found within the Qualification Specification which is available to download from the NALP website here.

6.4. Feedback on Completed Assignments

All Learners should be aware that NALP does not provide feedback on assignments, regardless of the outcome. This is because of the way the assignment questions are structured, meaning that it would be extremely easy for the feedback to give a Learner an advantage on their repeat of a question or even a re-take of a whole assignment.

The assignments are designed to set out a scenario and ask questions that will demonstrate the Learner’s understanding of the law as it is applied to the given scenario. Because of this, feedback could easily provide a Learner with too much information that could virtually give them the answer to the assignment question. The decision has therefore been made that NALP will not provide feedback on specific questions. The Learner’s chosen Approved Centre should, however, be able to provide some further guidance on how to answer the assignment questions. Additionally, we have provided some indicative content for all of the Learning Outcomes and Assessment Criteria within our Qualification Specification, available to download here. Learners can also find sample questions on our website here for them to practice prior to undertaking a live assignment.

If Learners require any further general guidance on how to complete their assignments, NALP is also happy to offer some direct guidance should this be necessary. We will not, however, provide specific guidance on individual assignment questions, nor give any form of feedback during these sessions on previous results.

6.5. Opportunities to Repeat Tasks

If a Learner passes an assignment overall with 45% or more, but fails one or more Learning Outcomes within that assignment, they will be advised which questions this applies to and may repeat the relevant questions within that assignment to achieve a pass. The Learner will be given two weeks in which to complete the repeated assignment question(s) they need to pass.

If a Learner fails the same Learning Outcome three times then they will be deemed to have failed the assignment and will have to request and complete an entire new assignment. This means that even though they may have passed the other Learning Outcomes in their original attempt, they will have to demonstrate that knowledge and understand again using a new assignment paper with different scenarios and questions.

NALP L3 Paralegal Qualifications Guide for Learners

If a Learner fails to achieve an overall pass mark of 45%, the Learner will have failed that assignment but will be able to request a new assignment, which should be completed within four weeks of it being issued by NALP. The first re-take will be free of charge, but if they fail for a second time, a fee will have to be paid for a new assignment and they will have a new four-week period in which to complete it. If a Learner fails to achieve a pass mark on the third attempt, they will be deemed to have failed the assignment completely and will be unable to gain the relevant qualification.

All Learners must have completed all assignment questions and passed all relevant units, both mandatory and optional, within the set timeframes as set out in Section 4.1 above.

Should a Learner fail to have completed and passed all necessary units for the qualification, they will be required to re-enrol on the qualification, including the payment of a second enrolment fee. Units already achieved may be considered under NALP's Recognition of Prior Learning Policy, a copy of which is available to download from our website here.

6.6. Quality Assurance of Assessment Decisions & Appeals

In all cases:

All assignments are marked externally by NALP employed assessors. No assessment decisions are made by any NALP Approved Centre.

NALP has a full Quality Assurance and Moderation Policy in place which is followed to ensure that all assessment decisions are consistent regardless of the assessor. If a Learner or Centre disagrees with the Assessment Decision, they are entitled to submit an Appeal, in line with our Appeals Policy, which is available to download from our website here.

Please note: Appeals will only be considered if there is a specific rationale provided for why the Learner or Centre disagrees with the decision made. We will not consider academic appeals based on the opinion of a third party who we have no evidence of their status in relation to the subject matter and assessment of Regulated Qualifications. If the tutor/teacher of an Approved Centre supports the appeal, they must give their specific reasons for doing so.

6.7. Instructions to Learners

Please read the following instructions carefully before attempting your assignment.

- Before you start an assignment, you should read it carefully and ensure that you understand what is required of you before you attempt any task. If you are uncertain, you should ask for guidance from your chosen Approved Centre, or you can contact NALP directly by emailing us: admin@nationalparalegals.co.uk
- Each task should be word processed on a fresh sheet of paper which is clearly headed with your name and your NALP Membership Number (all Learners are provided with one free year's membership of NALP on enrolment).
- Each task must be clearly labelled with the question number being attempted.
- All questions must be completed before the assignment is submitted for assessment. NALP provides comprehensive workbooks which you should be given by your chosen Approved Centre, in addition to any other training material the Approved Centre May provide. When completing your Assignments, you may use any books, notes or other sources to assist you, but YOU MUST CLEARLY CITE THESE SOURCES within your answer, including details of author and publication they are taken from, otherwise this could be construed as PLAGIARISM (i.e. copying from other works). Such PLAGIARISM WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED AND MAY RESULT IN YOUR DISQUALIFICATION FROM THE QUALIFICATION AS A WHOLE. Please note that whilst such citations are allowed, these should be kept to a minimum as it is important for Learners to produce original and individual work in order to clearly demonstrate your own knowledge and understanding.

- When you have completed all questions, please complete the front sheet of the Assignment and ensure that this is included with your assignment before emailing it to the two email addresses detailed on your instruction sheet. All Learners must verify that all the work contained in the assignment is your own. It is particularly important that this section is completed.
- When your work has been assessed, you will be informed of your result for that unit. If you do not successfully complete all units for the qualification taken you will be awarded unit certificates for the credits of each unit achieved.
- In the event of a Referral grade, where Learning Outcomes have not been achieved, you will be given the opportunity to re-do the question(s) again. Any questions referred must be completed and re-submitted within two weeks of being notified of the referral decision. A question may be attempted a total of 3 times before a learner will be required to complete a new full assignment for the relevant unit.
- Assignments will be assessed according to the standard of work provided against the Learning Outcomes and the Assessment Criteria given. A grade of pass, fail or refer will be given.
- If an assignment has been failed (by not achieving an overall pass mark of 45%), you will be given the chance to request another assignment. Failure to be successful in the second assignment will mean that a third will have to be requested for which a fee will be charged (details of fees available on request). There will be no further chances to complete the assignment.
